WORD FOR THE WEEK

"You are my lamp O Lord; the Lord turns my darkness into light." (2 Sam 22:29)

Beloved,

How important it is to have Jesus into our hearts! Without Him, we will live in darkness but praise be to God we are in the light. As children of the light, relationship matters because God has created us for relationship. Ecc 4:9 "Two are better than one...". The power of being a friend will be unleashed in 2010. This is the year of divine connections and making new friends. Since the year opened, I have made many more new friends than ever before. I have also seen more divine connections for ministry as the days go by and I thank God for all the divine connections that have made the ministry workable.

What matters in relationship is communication. Today internet communications have brought the world together by storm. Internet has brought friends together – old friends, new friends, future friends. I see the hand of God bringing people together – even those where friendship seems lost are now being reconciled.

Jesus was a friend even to the publicans and sinners – and He still is! Just being a friend to someone begins to open the Heavens over that person's life for God to reveal Himself .

Your enemy could very well become your best friend in 2010.

Whilst words break friendships, words also mend broken relationships together again. If you have a broken friendship with a friend, remember only ongoing communications with words will break down walls of division and strife. A friend was reconciled this week and she paid the tithes which were three months in arrears. This came out of prayers for her this morning. I also prayed for a brother for his sales and shared with him. This afternoon he shared with me that someone, out of the blues, called him up wanting to advertise. He was very down in the morning with so many rejections. Thank God for discernment and obedience. To God be the Glory!

We are all not born alike no matter how close the resemblance may be. There are still boundaries. Words break friendships; words mend relationships. Communication matters in relationships.

Don't count anyone out in your relationships even the hurtful ones. Your enemy today could very well be your best friend in 2010! Abraham Lincoln says, "The best way to destroy an enemy is to make him your friend." Prv 16:7 quotes: "When a man's way pleases the Lord, He makes even his enemies to be at peace with him."

I have found that today people don't communicate anymore. They communicate only by sms and emails and because the words have to be shortened it can be quite damaging to the souls as the reader could easily misinterpret the words. I was very upset the other day with the bank because I can't get through to them. If you want to see the manager, you never get to see him or get him on the line. So what can be done within five minutes takes months. A good example is our new bank signatories that cannot take effect at all despite submissions to the bank on the change of signatories for so many months.

Hence, whether you are on the internet or sms, I propose that you think before you write. I am sure many family and friends of soldiers at war treasure the words of their loved ones through writing although they don't get to see them. We may not see God face to face but it's His written Word to us in the Bible that draws us closer to Him. You can discern a person through the words he speaks. Communication matters!

Communication builds bridges in our everyday life. So keep communicating. If you do not communicate, you do not know what is in that person's mind. Misunderstanding can set in.

Jonathan loved David as he loved his own soul (1 Sam 18:1). Did Ruth love her mother-in-law out of insecurity or out of love? In Ruth 1:16-17 she says, "Where you go I will go and where you lodge, I will lodge. Your people shall be my people and thy God my God. Where you die, I will die and there will I be buried." Ponder for a moment. Do you love your mother-in-law the way Ruth did?

2010 will be a defining year for friendships that will prove 'two are better than one', because they have a good reward for their labour. For if they fall, one will lift up his fellow but woe to him that is alone. When he falls; for he doesn't have another to help him up. (Ecc 4:9-10). Friends naturally want to help each other no matter what the needs may be.

It is important to make everyone our friend. Prv 18:24 "A man that has (or who wants) friends must show himself friendly; and there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother." Keep praying for your friend, especially those with the same faith.

"What a friend we have in Jesus!" Who else is your friend besides Jesus?

God Bless.
